

Caitlin Ward

Caitlin is an ambitious and active twenty year old student of the University of the West Indies Cave Hill. She is pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in Fine Arts majoring in Theatre and Film, with aspirations of owning her own dance studio. She loves to dance and believes that it can be therapeutic for individuals with language challenges. Caitlin believes that dance develops positive channels of expression, builds self-confidence and opportunities to improve motor skills. She was diagnosed with dyslexia at the age of nine, while a student at George Lamming Primary School. The disability impairs her ability to read and grasp information quickly. As a result of this challenge, Caitlin spends additional time reviewing and processing information. She organises study groups in her courses; this assists her when preparing for examinations.

She is focused on her academic goals and is building the foundation to achieve these goals. Caitlin is a passionate and jovial young lady. During the interview with Caribbean Catalyst Inc. she expressed an interest in becoming an advocate for people with dyslexia, encouraging them to pursue their dreams.

Caitlin will receive a monetary contribution towards their studies. Caribbean Catalyst Inc. extends heartiest congratulations to Caitlin and encourages her to continue to fulfil her academic aspirations.

Kregg's mother, Mrs. Linnell Nurse and Kerri-Ann Ifill continue to be active supporters of the efforts of Caribbean Catalyst Inc. as the team work to assist the differently abled community in progressive ways.
